

ANOTHER FORTUNE OF $160,000 FOR SIMON D. PADDOCK

"Millionaire Kid" Declares He Will Not Dissipate His
New Inheritance.

HE HAS SETTLED DOWN.

Has a Good Wife and Will Attend to Business for Her Sake.

Not content with having done it once already, young Simon D. Paddock, the "Millionaire Kid," has done it again and inherited some more money. This time it is a paltry $160,000 or so. That is, maybe.

Paddock, he it remembered, is the erstwhile chauffeur from Atlantic Highlands, N. J., who in February, 1912, fell heir to a mere $50,000 left by an uncle in Syracuse, N. Y., bought a 50-horsepower racing automobile, turned on the "white lights" full cock until he used up the allowance granted him pending the settlement of the estate, and wound up by getting married after he had been dabbled for a while in the brokerage business.

That for history. Of late young Paddock has been laying low. He is a married man now, and his responsibility, to say nothing of that old tide allowance, have kept him attending strictly to business as a repair man for a firm that sells music machines at No. 30 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn.

HE HAD NEVER HEARD OF THE "MILLIONAIRE KID."

Albert J. Heath, the manager of the concern, wanted a repair man. Alas, fame, how unevenly you spread! When a young chap who said his name was Simon D. Paddock applied for the job and was taken on, the name meant nothing to Heath. He had never heard of Simon D. Paddock. Really and truly, he didn't know the "Millionaire Kid" from a hole in the ground.

Then, some days later, a big, snoring breathing racing automobile drew up in front of the store. With visions of a big sale, perhaps, Mr. Heath rushed to open the door for the young man who had jumped out of the machine and was crossing the sidewalk.

"Morning, Mr. Heath," said young Paddock, and he walked nonchalantly in.

"Well," Heath today told an Evening World reporter, "you could have knocked me over with a feather."

"Where did you get that machine?" I asked him. "Is it yours?"

"Yes," he said, "it's mine."

Thereafter patrons of the store whose music mills fell ill and needed a doctor were daily treated to the sight of a young man in oil-stained working clothes flashing madly and snoring up to their doors in a brute of a car that ground to a stop with a shrieking of brakes.

"Well, anyway, it was all beyond the comprehension of Heath, who put the matter confidentially to a friend.

FRIEND WHO READS NEWSPAPERS KNEW PADDOCK'S STORY.

"I don't know who I've got working for me," he said, "but he's the classiest repair man I've ever heard of. Is he kidding me, or is he some millionaire's son in disguise?"

"What did you say his name was?" I asked the friend.

And then the truth came out, for the friend happened to be up in current events.

The $160,000? Ah, right. Here we go.

Heath wrung from Paddock a confession of his identity.

Well, to make a long story short, when word came unofficially to Paddock the other day that another relative had died, I had left him some more of the news just had to leak out.

"I will not say which one of my relatives it is," he said to the reporter today. "I'm just waiting for the official notification."

"The I suppose you'd have a whole flock of automobiles?" was suggested.

"None. The one I've got is good enough. Besides I'm interested now in an invention of mine—a device that will make taking machine manufacturers sit up and take notice. That's how I came to be working here. I wanted to be where I could work around music boxes."

"No more 'white lights' either?"

"Nothing doing. I've got the best little wife in the world. I'm going to perfect my invention."

3 WOMEN AND MAN DRAGGED FROM DEATH AT BIG DAM'S EDGE

Beat Upset, They Clung for Hour Till Rope Was Floated to Them.

Three women and a man are recovering today from the exposure and exhaustion incident to a thrilling escape from being swept over the Dundee Dam, which extends across the Passaic river between Clifton and Garfield, N. J.

The women began to scream and a crowd of several hundred gathered on the river banks. The women were standing when the craft struck the top edge of the dam, over which about seven inches of water was flowing. All were hurled out and swept to the dam.

The boat turned over and caught on a snag. Two of the women grasped it and held on, while Blanch and the other woman clutched a beam below the surface of the water. For more than an hour men on both sides of the river tried to think of some means of rescue, while the four struggled to keep from being drawn to their deaths.

Finally Zischach anchored a rowboat out in the middle of the river and above the dam and paid out a long rope that floated down stream to the castaways. Blanch made four noises and one was passed about the body of one. Then Zischach lifted anchor and moved to the dam and the women and man clung to deep water and gradually to the bank.

Two physicians, Dr. Richard Hatfield of No. 128 Union street and Dr. Purfield Pfeiffer of No. 25 MacDonough street, were allowed to go with suspended sentences because of their statements that they were hurrying on account of professional emergencies.

Magistrate Kemper in the Adams Street Court sent two chauffeurs to jail for two days and fined six $25.

Magistrate Stevens in Butler Street Court fined six $25 and sent three to jail for the rest of the day.

AUTO MAIL DRIVER SENT TO PRISON FOR SPEEDING BIG TRUCK.

Jacob Warckman, twenty-five years old, of No. 180 Williams avenue, Brooklyn, operator of a United States mail automobile truck, today entered the prison attached to the Morrisania Police Court in the Bronx, to serve a "day"—from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon—in lieu of a fine of $25 imposed by Magistrate Corrigan for reckless driving.

Warckman was served with a summons on Nov. 1, while the strike of chauffeurs of mail trucks was in progress. He asked that the case be postponed because of a strike. When Warckman was arraigned today he was not represented by counsel.

Motorcycle Policeman Donovan testified that early in the evening of Nov. 1 the truck operated by Warckman swung in a reckless manner into One Hundred and Forty-ninth street from Third avenue, narrowly missing two corners. Warckman said the policeman was beside him on the driver's seat and that the policeman had told him that there had been no reckless driving.

Donovan further testified that the truck was going from fifteen to eighteen miles an hour.

"That would have been impossible," said Warckman. "I have a governor on my machine which prevents me from turning a corner at a greater speed than five or six miles an hour."

Ambassador Page Arranging Dinners in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sayre.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Francis Rowse Sayre and his bride, formerly Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, are to be the recipients of much social attention during their visit to London. Waterbury, the American Ambassador, has arranged two dinners in their honor, at which Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and other prominent persons, most of whom are friends of President Wilson, will be present.

Mrs. Page also will give a reception for the newly married couple, to which a large number of Americans have been invited.

Miss Page will give a luncheon for the ladies to meet Mrs. Sayre at the Authors' Club, while the Whitefriars Club, which is a prominent literary and dining club, desires also to entertain the White House bride and Mr. Sayre.

The steamship company has made arrangements by means of which Mr. and Mrs. Sayre will be able to avoid photographers when they land in England.

Forbearings.

IF KIDNEYS FEEL LIKE LEAD OR YOUR BACK HURTS, TAKE SALTS

We eat too much meat, which clogs kidneys, and they need a flushing occasionally.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of stinging, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.
